THE TEMPLE OF JUSTICE.

Opening Week of the Spring Term of Court

JUDGE LOVE PRESIDING

Not Very Many Important Cases Were Tried—Many Postponed Until the Next Term of Court.

JNO. P. HARRIS, FOREMAN GRAND JURY

(Reported by W. Harrison Walker Esq)

The regular term of Court convened at the Court House Monday morning with Hon. John G. Love, P. J., on the bench; Prothonotary Gardner and Register Archey were in their respective places.

About the only business that was done during the morning session was the calling over the list of names of jurymen, the charge to the Grand Jurymen, the return of the constables of the several districts of the county, and the presentation of motions and petitions by the attorneys at the bar.

The list of criminal cases for trial are few, and none of them are very important, nor are there any for trial of a serious nature.

The Court appointed John P. Harris banker, of Bellefonte, foreman of the grand jury. There are ten cases on the civil list for disposition in the nature of appeals and judgments rendered by justices of the peace of the county for the first week, and seventeen cases on the calendar for the second week of Court which begins on Monday, May 2nd. Many of the cases on both lists are settled and continued.

Quite a number of petitions for roads andbridges were presented to the Court Monday forenoon.

Before court adjourned Monday forenoon the case of Chas. Fravel vs Daniel Long was marked settled: the attorneys agreed to a non suit in the case of Geo. Robb vs Evan R. Lucas. The case of J. H. Weber vs Geo. Gentzel was continued. These three cases were appeals from judgments rendered by justices of the peace.

Court adjourned at 11 a. m. to 2p. m.

Letters of Administration were issued on the following estates, within the past several days:

Estate of William Walters, late of Millheim Borough, deceased to F. P Musser.

Estate of Hannah M. Iddings, late of Union Township, deceased to Philip B. Iddings.

Estate of Henry Yearick, late of Marion Township, deceased to N. H. Yearick and J. S. Martin.

Estate of Mrs. Matilda Strouse, late of Gregg Township, deceased to Cyrus H. and Charles E. Strouse;

Estate of J. W. Shook, late of Gregg Township, deceased to C. C. Shook;

Estate of Joseph Strouse, late of Ferguson Township, deceased to Rev. C. T. Aikens.

The case of Eunice H. Jackson vs D. D. Woods was continued at the costs of plaintiff. This was an appeal taken from the judgment of a justice of the peace in Philipsburg.

The first case tried on Monday afternoon was that of the Lackawanna Fertilizer Chemical Co. vs John Mitchell. This was also an appeal. From the facts in the case it appeared that the plaintiff company made a contract for the sale of fertilizer etc., with the defendant, he to receive certain commissions according to the grade of fertilizer sold. For some reason or other the terms of the contract were not as desired and the contract was recinded before any orders were sent in by the defendant. The plaintiff brought suit in pursuance with the said terms and the defendant took the appeal. The jury after argument of counsel and charge of the Court found a verdict in favor of the defendant.

In the case of Commonwealth vs Thomas Park, who was charged with an assault etc., the grand jury ignored the bill of indictment and put the costs on the county.

The grand jury ignored the bill of indictment in the case of Com. vs James Cunningham, who was indicted for assault and battery, and placed the costs on the county.

By leave of Court a nol pros was entered in the case of Com. vs David Pearce and Mame Pearce who were indicted for assault and battery,. John C. Bair was the prosecutor in the case. A true bill was returned by the grand jury in the case.

Bert Delige who is noted for his scrapping disposition in and around Scotia was found guilty of assault and battery on one, Wm. Bottorf, and was sentenced by the Court to pay a fine of $10.00, the costs of prosecution, and to the jail of Centre county for one month.

The first case tried Tuesday morning was that of Com. vs Barney Mendleman a Russian pedler from Philipsburg. Louis Finberg was the prosecutor. From the facts in the case it appeared that the defendant and the prosecutor had some words which meant fight. Each party indulging in the use of names, slurs, etc., and in the wind up they used fists to end it. Finberg showed to the Court and jury a finger that was about bitten off by Mendleman. The jury after hearing the case thought about as much of one side as the other and found the defendant not guilty and divided the costs equally between the prosecutor and defendant. Their fun cost each of them from $50 to $75.

The second case called for trial Tuesday afternoon was that of Com. vs Hillary Viard, charged with assault and battery on the person of James Cunningham. From the evidence in this case it appeared that the defendant stoned the prosecutor when on his way home from work on March 10th between four and five o'clock. Some swearing and vile language was indulged in by both the boys. The verdict of the jury has not yet been rendered.

COURT NOTES.

J. Singleton Bell, Esq., of the Clearfield county bar was admitted to the bar, he being specially interested in a civil case to be tried during the week.

Hon. Cyrus Gordon, and A. A. Woodward, Esq., both of Clearfield, are in attendance at court.

The criminal cases this week are few and of very little importance.

Thursday afternoon is the time fixed for the habaes corpus hearing in the case of Com. vs Father Zarcek, of Snow Shoe.

Ex-Sheriff Brungart is here from Centre Hall, serving as one of the traverse jurors.

The grand jury ignored the bill of indictment in the case of Commonwealth vs Charles Bathurst, who was charged with the crime of larceny, and that of receiving stolen goods. Walter Fulton is the prosecutor. Costs were put upon the county.

The Grand Jury in the case of Commonwealth versus E. E. Gentzel who was indicted on three counts, 1st.. Larceny; 2nd., Larceny by Bailee; and 3d., Embezzlement by an agent; ignored the bill. J. H. Reifsnyder of Millheim was the prosecutor.

Hilliary Viard who was tried Tuesday for Assault and Battery was found guilty.

The bill against Ollie Dubbleton who was indicted for an assault was ignored by the grand jury and the costs put upon the prosecutor, Patrick Closs.

Tuesday evening the last case taken up was that of Commonwealth versus A. C. Wilson of Burnside Township, who was indicted for "Breaking Quarrantine Regulations." The prosecutor was Dr. W. R. Babb, State Quarantine Officer. The Grand Jury returned a true bill, but on motion of the attorneys for defendant the bill of indictment was quashed.

The Howard Township Quarantine cases were continued to next term of Court. The Grand Jury approved a County Bridge over Sinking Creek in Potter Township; also a County Bridge over Wallace's Run in Bogg Township.

A subpoena in divorce was awarded by the Court in the case Margaret A. Gilson versus Thomas Gilson.

On motion the Court ordered a new Election precinct or district for Rush Township, to be known as the Eastern Election District of Rush Township. He appointed as judge, Harry Potts; Majority Inspector, E. J. Goodyear; Minority Inspector, J. J. Stewart. He also appointed Geo. W. Williams as Registration Assessor for said district. Appointment to be in force until successors are elected at February Election 1905: The place for voting was fixed in the school house in the village of Cassanova.

When the case of Jane Cowher versus Wilson Frantz, Appeal, was called Wednesday morning, all other traverse jurors not empannelled in that case were discharged.

REPORT OF GRAND JURY.

The usual form for the report of the Grand Jury was used, and the only report made was that they acted upon 16 bills of indictment, that they found 11 true bills and that they ignored 5. They also reported that they acted favorably on two bridge views. No other findings were reported or recommendations made.

The following cases on the civil list for trial during the week were continued:

Joseph Bros., and Co., versus Grant Hoover and Richard Hoover. Appeal. Plea, non assumpsit. Jacob Test versus George R. Mock, administrator of etc. of Jacob Mock, deceased.

A Voluntary non suit was entered in the case of S. F. Dorman versus Chestie A. Homan and Thomas A. Homan.

The case of Carrie Harter and A. Harter versus John D. Long was settled by the parties.

The Grand Jurors were discharged at 10.30 o'clock Wednesday.

ATTRACTING ATTENTION.

Teachers and Their Friends Securing the Much Coveted Ballots.

The chase for the Bellefonte Republican ballots in the World's Fair contest for school teachers is in full swing and there is a scramble for the desired bits of paper.

Candidates and their friends have learned the wisdom of piling up votes by securing subscriptions to the Bellefonte Republican and the Daily News. Every new subscriber to either paper will count 50 votes for every dollar paid, or 40 votes if the dollar is paid on back subscription.

Subscriptions are rolling in rapidly but the prospects are they will be quadrupled in a short time.

The offer of a trip to the World's Fair is attracting wide attention, not only to the teachers but their friends, hundreds of whom are anxious to have their particular teacher chosen to attend the World's Fair in order that he or she may profit by the knowledge sure to be gained. It is the opportunity of a lifetime

World's Fair Tour

APRIL 28.

Cut out and deposit in the ballot box at Bellefonte REPUBLICAN office. This coupon is void if not voted within ten days from date.

The Bellefonte REPUBLICAN and the DAILY NEWS, both under one management, have decided to make the most generous offer ever made by a newspaper in the history of Centre county. The offer is simply this: We will send to the great World's Fair at St Louis next summer the most popular school teacher, lady or gentleman, in Centre county, paying all expenses such as car fare, hotel bills, and admission to the fair grounds.

The object of this distribution being to place a premium on early payments of subscription, hurry up and pay your subscription and vote for the teacher of your choice.

Early Morning Wedding.

At 7:30 Tuesday morning a very pretty wedding took place in the St. John's Catholic church on Bishop street, the happy young couple being Mr. John Pearl and Miss Rose Doll.

The low mass and the regular marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Patrick McArdle. The bride looked beautiful in a light colored tailor-made traveling suit. The groom looked as though he was the happiest man in the world.

The groom was attended by Mr. John Higgens, of Coatesville, Pa., as best man while the bridesmaid was Miss Bridget Pearl, a sister of the groom. After the ceremony at the chuach the bridal party was driven to the Doll home on Allegheny street where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served.

Both bride and groom are well known young people of Bellefonte. They have hosts of friends who join with this paper to wish them joy and happiness without an end through life.

After an extended wedding tour through eastern cities they will go to housekeeping at Donora, Pa. where Mr. Pearl is employed at his trade.

Great Motion Pictures.

Lyman E. Howe's moving pictures, the greatest of their kind now before the public, entertained and instructed a large audience at the Grand Opera House last night.

A great variety of subjects are illustrated. Far away India contributes a river scene that is startling in its realism; we see the martial Cossacks marching through historic Moscow to the war; the Japanese on the "Azama" working a big quick-firing gun that helped to smash a portion of the fleet of the Czar of these self-same Cossacks; an English polo game; we are transported over the fishing grounds of the North Sea fleet and take a trip to the famous Giant's Causeway with a party of jolly Cook's tourists. Then there are trick pictures that are truly marvelous, and the natural history studies showing bees at work are perhaps the most remarkable pictures of this wonderful display. A Large Barn Burned.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock on Monday night the large barn on the farm of David Rothrock, situated in Buffalo Run Valley, about three miles from town, caught fire and was burned to the ground with all its contents. Three valuable horses, two calves and several hogs were burned to death. All the hay, grain and farm implements were destroyed entailing a loss to Mr. Rothrock of between two and three thousand dollars. The origin of the fire is unknown.

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL ASSEMBLY.

Given by Mrs. Mary A. Johnson Tuesday Evening.

The handsome Linn street residence of Mrs. Mary Ann Johnson was the scene of pleasure, gayety and mirth Tuesday evening. Bellefonte society was represented to its fullest extent with ladies to enjoy Mrs. Johnson annual social assembly. The large parlors were a scene of grandeur as fully ninty of our town's leading ladies were in attendance, dressed in silks and satins and gorgeous gowns.

These social gatherings of Mrs. Johnson's are looked forward to from year to year and for weeks before the event occurs gowns suitable for the occasion are being made, and as a result no more fashionable aggregation of the female sex, could have been found among the "four hundred" in some of our large cities.

In addition to the guests from Bellefonte, there was quite a number of distinguished visitors from a distance.

The refreshments were sumptuous and served by Ceaders the Caterer. Those who waited on the table, were the following society buds who are personal friends of the hostess. They were tastily dressed, and looked exceedingly pretty: Misse Lulu Harper, Mame Butts, Emma Montgomery and Bessie Dorworth. The refreshments were delicious and comprised everything that is good, and in lavish abundance.

During the evening Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes, Mrs. J. C. Meyer and Miss Bessie Dorworth rendered some beautiful music. Mrs. Johnson was the recipient of many beautiful presents among them being a handsome Morris chair.

As the hands of the clock pointed to the mid-night hour the ladies began to retire to their homes and the scene changed from one of life and animation to rest and quiet, leaving the hostess to her own reflections and to the conciousness of knowing that she had contributed a large measure of enjoyment to those who had been there.

Below we give the names of those who were present.

Died at Madisonburg.

Mrs. Mary A. Deibler from Shamokin was taken sick with cystitis and peritonitis while visiting at the home of Mrs. Amanda Miller of Madisonburg. After two weeks of suffering she passed away on Sunday at 10.30 a. m. at the age of 78 years. Mrs. Deibler was a highly respected lady, a kind friend and a loving mother.

She was tenderly cared for through her illness by her children Mr. Will Deibler from Chicago, Ill.; Mr. Ed from Williamsport, Pa.; Mr. Francis and Mrs. J. S. Aucker from Shamokin.

After prayer offered by Rev. Wetzel they departed with the remains for Shamokin on Monday afternoon.

Funeral services conducted by her pastor Dr. Fisher from the Grace Lutheran church on Wednesday.

POLISH PRIEST ARRESTED!

Charged With Whipping a Boy Causing His Death.

POST MORTEM HELD

Andrew Sofka, Aged 16 Died Sunday as a Result it is Alleged of Injuries Received from a Beating Given Him by Father Victor Zarak of Snow Shoe.

THE PRIEST LIKELY TO GO FREE

Because he would not attend Sunday School, Andrew Sofka, a poor Hungarian boy, was whipped by Father Victor Zarak, of Snow Shoe, and it is alleged as a result of these injuries he died Sunday afternoon. Information was made before Squire J. S. Smith at Snow Shoe and Father Zarak was arrested and is now incarcerated in the County Jail at this place.

The particulars in this unfortunate affair are about as follows: Andrew Sofka is a young Hungarian about 16 years of age. He is the only support of a widowed mother and is employed as a miner in the Sugar Camp mine. He is a member of Father Zarak's church at Snow Shoe but of late had not been attending Sunday school regularly. A week ago Sunday the priest met the boy's mother and asked her in regard to the matter. She said the boy refused to go and she could not make him attend. On last Thursday morning it is reported that the Priest saw the boy playing ball in a vacant lot near his residence and taking a broom handle called the boy to him and asked him why he did not go to Sunday school. The boy gave his reasons for staying away but they did not satisfy Father Zarak and he whipped the boy severely. He died on Sunday afternoon shortly after dinner. Dr. R. J. Young was the attending physician and shortly before the young man died he made a statement in which he alleged that the Priest struck him thirty times over the head and shoulders and then kicked him in the intestines.

Sunday afternoon a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Father Zarak and it was placed in the hands of Constable W. B. Hall who at once proceeded to the Priest's house but the Priest was not there. After searching the Priest's house he went to the residence of George Cachick, a Hungarian, and there found his man. This was about 9 o'clock Sunday evening. He in company with George Lucas brought the Priest to town reaching here about 1 o'clock.

A reporter for the Republican called at the jail Monday to see Father Zarak but he refused to make any statement for publication. He is represented by Ex-Judge Austin O. Furst who at once applied for a writ of habeus corpus.

Father Victor Zarak is about forty years of age and during his pastorate at Snow Shoe has been highly successful in his church work. He is very intelligent and highly educated and speaks fluently twelve different languages.

CORONOR'S INQUEST FAVORABLE TO THE PRIEST.

Coroner S. M. Huff, assisted by Doctors Seibert and Hayes of this place, and Young and Neff of Snow Shoe held a post mortem examination over the remains of Andrew Sofka at Clarence, Monday afternoon and evening and decided that his death was due to peritonitis brought on by appendicitis. Whether it was caused by the whipping given the lad by Father Zarek was not stated. The general belief is that their report will entirely exonerate Father Zarek of all blame.

The Priest has steadily asserted his innocence to his friends and their story is that young Sofka had become perfectly incorrigible since the death of his father and that his mother could do nothing with him. He would not attend church nor go to school and his mother asked the Priest to take him in hand and discipline him. On last Wednesday afternoon the Priest saw him and called him into his library and after talking to him struck him five or six times with a switch. None of the blows raised a mark on the boy and it is claimed could not possibly have caused his death. Before the boys death the Priest administered the last rites of the church to him.

The Priest's attorney has applied for a writ of habeus corpus which will be argued before Judge Love Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. One of the doctors who assisted at the Post mortem informed a reporter for this paper that there were no marks on the boys body to indicate that he had been roughly handled.

Moran of the Lady Letty

The junk bore slowly down upon the schooner. In a few moments she had hove to alongside. But for the enormous red eyes upon her bow she was innocent of paint. She was grimed and shellacked with dirt and grease and smelled abominable. Her crew were Chinamen, but such Chinamen! The coolies of the Bertha Milliner were pampered and effete in comparison. The beachcombers, thirteen in number, were a smaller class of men, their faces almost black with tan and dirt. Though they still wore the cue, their heads were not shaven, and mats and mops of stiff black hair fell over their eyes from under their broad, basket shaped hats.

They were barefoot. None of them wore more than two garments, the jeans and the blouse. They were the lowest type of men Wilbur had ever seen. The faces were those of a higher order of anthropoid apes; the lower portion—jaws, lips and teeth—salient, the nostrils opening at almost right angles, the eyes tiny and bright, the forehead seamed and wrinkled, unnaturally old. Their general expression was one of simian cunning and a ferocity that was utterly devoid of courage.

"Aye!" exclaimed Moran between her teeth. "If the devil were a shepherd, here are his sheep. You don't come aboard this schooner, my friends! I want to live as long as I can and die when I can't help it. Boat ahoy!" she called.

An answer in Cantonese singsong came back from the junk, and the speaker gestured toward the outside ocean.

Then a long parleying began. For upward of half an hour Moran and Wilbur listened to a proposition in broken pigeon English made by the beachcombers again and again and yet again and were in no way enlightened. It was impossible to understand. Then at last they made out that there was question of a whale. Next it appeared the whale was dead, and, finally, after a proionged pantomime of gesturing and pointing, Moran guessed that the beachcombers wanted the use of the Bertha Milliner to trice up the dead leviathan while the oil and whalebone were extracted.

"That must be it," she said to Wilbur. "That's what they mean by pointing to our masts and tackle. You see, they couldn't manage with that stick of theirs, and they say they'll give us a third of the loot. We'll do it, mate, and I'll tell you why. The wind has fallen, and they can tow us out. If it's a sperm whale they've found there ought to be thirty or forty barrels of oil in him, let alone the blubber and bone. Oil is at $50 now, and spermaceti will always bring $100. We'll take it on, mate, but we'll keep our eyes on the rats all the time. I don't want them aboard at all. Look at their belts. Not three out of the dozen who aren't carrying those filthy little hatchets. Faugh!" she exclaimed, with a shudder of disgust. "Such vipers!"

What followed proved that Moran had guessed correctly. A rope was passed to the Bertha Milliner, the junk put out its sweep, and to a wailing, eldritch chanting the schooner was towed out of the bay.

"I wonder what Charlie and our China boys will think of this?" said Wilbur, looking shoreward, where the deserters could be seen gathered together in a silent, observing group.

"We're well shut of them," growled Moran, her thumbs in her belt. "Only now we'll never know what was the matter with the schooner these last few nights. "Hoh!" she exclaimed under her breath, her scowl thickening. "Sometimes I don't wonder the beasts cut."

The dead whale was lying four miles out of the entrance of Magdalena bay, and as the junk and the schooner drew near seemed like a huge black boat floating bottom up. Over it and upon it swarmed and clamored thousands of sea birds, while all around and below the water was thick with gorging sharks. A dreadful, strangling decay fouled all the air.

The whale was a sperm whale and fully twice the length of the Bertha Milliner. The work of tricing him up occupied the beachcombers throughout the entire day. It was out of the question to keep them off the schooner, and Wilbur and Moran were too wise to try. They swarmed the forward deck and rigging like a plague of unclean monkeys, climbing with an agility and nimbleness that made Wilbur sick at his stomach. They were unlike any Chinamen he had ever seen—hideous to a degree that he had imagined impossible in a human being. On two occasions a fight developed, and in an instant the little hatchets were flashing like the flash of a snake's fangs. Toward the end of the day one of them returned to the junk screaming like a stuck pig, a bit of his chin bitten off.

Moran and Wilbur kept to the quarter deck, always within reach of the huge cutting-in spades, but the Chinese beachcombers were too elated over their prize to pay them much attention.

And indeed the dead monster proved a veritable treasure trove. By the end of the day he had been triced up to the foremast, and all hands, straining at the windlass, had raised the mighty head out of the water. The Chinamen descended upon the smooth, black body, their bare feet sliding and slipping at every step. They held on by jabbing their knives into the hide as glacier climbers do their ice picks. The head yielded barrel after barrel of oil and a fair quantity of bone. The blubber was taken aboard the junk, minced up with hatchets and run into casks.

Last of all, a Chinaman cut a hole through the "case" and, actually descending into the inside of the head, stripped away the spermaceti, clear as crystal, and packed it into buckets, which were hauled up on the junk's deck. The work occupied some two or three days. During this time the Bertha Milliner was keeled over to nearly twenty degrees by the weight of the dead monster. However, neither Wilbur nor Moran made protest. The Chinamen would do as they pleased. That was said and signed. And they did not release the schooner until the whale had been emptied of oil and blubber, spermaceti and bone.

At length, on the afternoon of the third day, the captain of the junk, whose name was Hoang, presented himself upon the quarter deck. He was naked to the waist, and his bare brown torso was gleaming with oil and sweat. His cue was coiled like a snake around his neck, his hatchet thrust into his belt.

"Well?" said Moran, coming up.

Wilbur caught his breath as the two stood there facing each other, so sharp was the contrast. The man, the Mongolian, small, weazened, leather colored, secretive—a strange, complex creature, steeped in all the obscure mystery of the east, nervous, ill at ease—and the girl, the Anglo-Saxon, daughter of the northmen, huge, blonde, big boned, frank, outspoken, simple of composition, open as the day, bareheaded, her great ropes of sandy hair falling over her breast and almost to the top of her knee boots. As he looked at the two Wilbur asked himself where else but in California could such abrupt contrasts occur.

"All right," announced Hoang. "Catchum all oil, catchum all bone, catchum all same plenty many. You help catchum, now you catchum pay. Sabe?"

The three principals came to a settlement with unprecedented directness. Like all Chinamen, Hoang was true to his promises and had already set apart three and a half barrels of spermaceti, ten barrels of oil and some twenty pounds of bone as the schooner's share in the transaction. There was no discussion over the matter. He called their attention to the discharge of his obligations and hurried away to summon his men aboard and get the junk under way again.

The beachcombers returned to their junk, and Wilbur and Moran set about cutting the carcass of the whale adrift. They found it would be easier to cut away the hide from around the hooks and loops of the tackle than to unfasten the tackle itself.

"The knots are jammed hard as steel," declared Moran. "Hand up that cutting-in spade; stand by with the other and cut loose at the same time as I do, so we can ease off the strain on these lines at the same time. Ready there, cut!" Moran set free the hook in the loop of black skin in a couple of strokes, but Wilbur was more clumsy; the skin resisted. He struck at it sharply with the heavy spade. The blade hit the iron hook, glanced off and opened a large slit in the carcass below the head. A gush of entrails started from the slit, and Moran swore under breath.

"Ease away, quick there! You'll have the mast out of her next—steady! Hold your spade—what's that?"

Wilbur had nerved himself against the dreadful stench he expected would issue from the putrid monster, but he was surprised to note a pungent, sweet and spicy odor that all at once made thick the air about him. It was an aromatic smell, stronger than that of the salt ocean, stronger even than the reek of oil and blubber from the schooner's waist—sweet as incense, penetrating as attar, delicious as a summer breeze.

"It smells pretty good, whatever it is," he answered. Moran came up to where he stood and looked at the slit he had made in the whale's carcass. Out of it was bulging some kind of dull white matter marbled with gray. It was a hard lump of irregular shape and about as big as a hogshead.

Moran glanced over to the junk, some forty feet distant. The beachcombers were hoisting the lug sail. Hoang was at the steering oar.

"Get that stuff aboard," she commanded quietly.

"That!" exclaimed Wilbur, pointing to the lump.

Moran's blue eyes were beginning to gleam.

"Yes, and do it before the Chinamen see you."

"But—but I don't understand."

Moran stepped to the quarter deck, unslung the hammock in which Wilbur slept and tossed it to him.

"Reeve it up in that. I'll pass you a line, and we'll haul it aboard. Godsend those vermin yonder have got smells enough of their own without noticing this. Hurry, mate. I'll talk afterward."

Wilbur went over the side and, standing as best he could upon the slippery carcass, dug out the lump and bound it up in the hammock.

"Hoh!" exclaimed Moran, with sudden exultation. "There's a lot of it. That's the biggest lump yet, I'll be bound. Is that all there is, mate? Look carefully." Her voice had dropped to a whisper.

"Yes, yes; that's all. Careful now when you haul up. Hoang has got his eye on you, and so have the rest of them. What do you call it anyhow? Why are you so particular about it? Is it worth anything?"

"I don't know—perhaps. We'll have a look at it anyway."

Moran hauled the stuff aboard, and Wilbur followed.

"Whew!" he exclaimed with half closed eyes. "It's like the story of Samson and the dead lion—the sweet coming forth from the strong."

The schooner seemed to swim in a bath of perfumed air. The membrane of the nostrils fairly pringled with the sensation. Moran unleashed the hammock and, going down upon one knee, examined the lump attentively.

"It didn't seem possible," Wilbur heard her saying to herself, "but there can't be any mistake. It's the stuff, right enough. I've heard of such things, but this—but this"— She rose to her feet, tossing back her hair.

"Well," said Wilbur, "what do you call it?"

"The thing to do now," returned Moran, "is to get clear of here as quietly and as quickly as we can and take this stuff with us. I can't stop to explain now, but it's big—it's big. Mate, it's big as the Bank of England."

"Those beachcombers are right on to the game, I'm afraid," said Wilbur. "Look, they're watching us. This stuff would smell across the ocean."

"Rot the beachcombers! There's a bit of wind, thank heaven, and we can do four knots to their one, just let us get clear once."

Moran dragged the hammock back into the cabin and, returning to the deck, helped Wilbur to cut away the last tricing tackle. The schooner righted slowly to an even keel. Meanwhile the junk had set its one lug sail and its crew had run out the sweeps. Hoang took the steering sweep and worked the junk to a position right across the Bertha's bows some fifty feet ahead.

"They're watching us, right enough," said Wilbur.

"Up your mains'l!" ordered Moran. The pair set the fore and main sails with great difficulty. Moran took the wheel, and Wilbur went forward to cast off the line by which the schooner had been tied up to one of the whale's flukes.

"Cut it!" cried the girl. "Don't stop to cast off."

There was a hail from the beachcombers, the port sweeps dipped and the junk bore up nearer.

"Hurry!" shouted Moran. "Don't mind them! Are we clear for'ard—what's the trouble? Something's holding her." The schooner listed slowly to starboard and settled by the head.

"All clear!" cried Wilbur.

"There's something wrong!" exclaimed Moran. "She's settling for'ard." Hoang hailed the schooner a second time.

"We're still settling," called Wilbur from the bows. "What's the matter?"

"Matter that she's taking water," answered Moran wrathfully. "She's started something below, what with all that lifting and dancing and tricing up."

Wilbur ran back to the quarter deck.

"This is a bad fix," he said to Moran. "Those chaps are coming aboard again. They're on to something, and, of course, at just this moment she begins to leak."

"They are after that ambergris," said Moran between her teeth. "Smelt it, of course—the swine!"

"Ambergris?"

"The stuff we found in the whale. That's ambergris."

"Well?"

"Well!" shouted Moran, exasperated. "Do you know that we have found a lump that will weigh close to 250 pounds, and do you know that ambergris is selling in San Francisco at $40 an ounce? Do you know that we have picked up nearly $150,000 right out here in the ocean and are in a fair way to lose it all?"

"Can we run for it?"

"Run for it in a boat that's taking water like a sack! Our dory's gone. Suppose we got clear of the junk and the Bertha sank? Then what? If we only had our crew aboard; if we only were ten to their dozen—if we were only six—by Jupiter, I'd fight them for it!"

The two enormous red eyes of the junk loomed alongside and stared over into the Bertha's waist. Hoang and seven of the coolies swarmed aboard.

SENATOR HALL CHAIRMAN!

Democratic State Committee Held Short Session

MEEK IS RE-ELECTED

The Effort at Harmony in the Matter of Contests Was by No Means a Success.

VERMONT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 21.—Senator J. K. P. Hall, of Ridgeway, was unanimously re-elected chairman of the democratic state committee at a meeting Wednesday morning which lasted only five minutes. He immediately announced the re-appointment of ex-Senator P. Gray Meek, of Bellefonte, as secretary.

Chairman Hall said, in accepting the election, that the party was better organized now then it has been for fifteen years, and will give a good account of itself at the next election. He also said that he did not want to continue as chairman, but at the suggestion of the party leaders he consented to serve another year.

The following division chairmen, who constitute the state executive committee, were elected: First John Walters, Lebanon; second, E. S. Doty, Bedford; third, John D. Keenan, Greensburg; fourth, William H. Kinnebe, Erie; fifth, J. L. Spangler, Bellefonte; sixth, H. E. Spiker, Lewisburg; seventh, William T. Creasy, Catawissa; eighth, John F. Ancona, Reading; ninth, Charles P. Donnelly, Philadelphia. The only changes are Colonel Spangler, who succeeds D. J. Driscoll, of Ridgeway, and Mr. Walters, who takes the place of T. F. Minehard, of Chambersburg.

The Westmoreland county contest will not be settled until Chairman Hall has had another conference with Colonel Guffey. Captain John B. Keenan, of Greensburg, was here Wednesday and it seems to be conceded that he will be recognized by the state leaders. The faction of which Judge L. W. Doty is the recognized head is not in good favor with Guffey. Chairman Hall is authorized by the convention to appoint a committee of three, of which he shall be a member, to settle this contest, and it is expected that he will appoint a committee that will decide in Keenan's favor.

The contest in the Fifteenth district is as far from settlement as that from Westmoreland county. This district includes Lycoming county, where Senator Cochran's friends were defeated for national delegates. The senator is in Europe and his opponents took advantage of his absence to elect state delegates opposed to his leadership. Cochran is close to Guffey and it is thought when he returns he will induce the colonel to settle the trouble to his satisfaction.

Neither faction of the Dauphin county democracy was represented at Wednesday's meeting of the state committee. The harmony deal by which B. F. Meyers, of this city, was elected the national delegate from the Eighteenth district does not include recognition by the state committee of the rival county committees. Until the Dauphin democrats settle their differences this county will have no representation in the state committee.

To Divide the Diocese.

Bishop Talbot, of the Episcopal Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, announces that a division of the diocese is practically assured, says a Wilkesbarre dispatch. He said:

"Last year's convention decided to divide the diocese provided $100,000 could be raised for the necessary endowment. The committee now has in sight over $70,000, and the division may as well be considered as accomplished, for it will be the act of the convention in June to vote for division and this act I expect will be ratified by the general convention of the church, which meets in October."

Try This.

The next time you go to a party, take with you a reel of white cotton and a needle. At the first opportunity thread the needle and drop the real inside your breast pocket; pass the needle through your coat from the inside, and detach it from the cotton, leaving about two inches hanging upon the outside of your black coat. You will be interested to see how your friends try to do you the kindness of removing the cotton and the effect will be startling when they pull out an apparently endless length of thread.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy I seldom need it, as it has cured me. MRS. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

TRADE REVIEW FOR THE WEEK

Unseasonable Weather Still the Only Drawback

THERE IS CONFIDENCE

Concerning the Future—There is Said to be Littte Prospect for the Usual May Labor Day Disturbances.

WHAT DUN & CO'S HAS TO SAY.

NEW YORK, April 23.—R. G. Dun & Company's Weekly Review of Trade today will say:

Unseasonable weather is still the chief drawback to improvement in business, complaints being received from every section of the country, and slower collections are also attributed to this factor. Not only is current distribution of merchandise, particularly dry goods, affected by the thermometer, but future commitments are undertaken most conservatively an account of the possible injury to crops. There has been much talk of damage to cotton, but replanting may prevent any reduction in the total yield, and a few weeks of desirable weather would remove anxiety regarding wheat. There is much confidence regarding the future, despite the fact that at many points supplies of merchandise are burdensome. With the exception of wearing apparel, manufacturing plants are increasingly active and structural work is gradually resuming normal proportions for the season. May 1st is usually the date fixed for many labors controversies, but this year there is little prospect of serious disturbances.

While no further improvement can be discerned in the iron and steel industry, it is gratifying to find no distinct evidence of a setback. Nor is it certain that a temporary check to progress is to be deplored. Experience very recently demonstrated that the disposition in the iron and steel trade was to force progress, engendering inflation of prices and all the other undesirable features of a boom. For about three months blast furnace output increase steady and confidence appeared to be returning. Present hesitation is directly due to the failure of the leading interest to take up an option on pig iron at its maturity in conjunction with apparent cancellation of several small orders.

Railway equipment is still the most backward feature, while merchant steel for implement makers leads in activity.

Retail distribution of footwear is slow and wholesalers have not disposed of summer style sufficiently to place supplementary orders so that factories are overtaking contracts and more machinery is idle.

No improvement has occurred in woolens and worsteds and the proportion of idle silk machinery has increased. Slightly lower prices prevail for the leading agricultural staples.

Honduras at the Fair.

St. Louis, April 23.—In the exhibit of Honduras at the World's Fair is a great display of valuable forest products and several interesting varieties of fine cabinet woods. One of them is new, its principal qualification having only recently been discovered. It is called San Juan wood and is said to be practically fireproof. It resembles satinwood and is capable of a high polish, greatly resembling white mahogany. Another useful wood is a tall tree especially valuable for piles in wharves, inasmuch as insects will not attack it.

Uhe junco fibre, from which Panama hats are made, and other useful forest products also form an interesting exhibit.

In the Honduras fruit display at the World's Fair are banana plants in all stages, showing the rapid growth of this plant. Every day new plants will be started, to show how rapidly they grow by comparison. It will almost be a case of bananas grown while you wait.

Honduras has a fine mineral exhibit also, containing gold, silver, copper and iron. A feature of this exhibit is the wonderful magnetic iron which is found in such large quantities in Honduras. It often runs as high as seventy per cent. pure iron.

Starving Widow a Prey to Rats.

Doylestown, April 22.— Starving and helpless, Mrs. William Dowling, an old woman of Rockhill township; was found partially eaten by rats Thursday by friends, who have since had her removed to the Bucks county home.

Mrs. Dowling and her husband came to this country from Ireland many years ago and purchased a small farm in Rockhill, where they lived in a one story house until eight years ago, when the husband died, leaving his wife the real estate and about $400 in money,

She tried to shift for herself, but five years ago Judge Harman Yerkes appointed a commission to investigate her condition, and she was removed to a Catholic home in Philadelphia. But she refused to stay, wandering back to Rockhill, where she slept on a board bed in the miserable hut.

Neighbors did all they could for the woman, but on account of her erratic actions she nearly frozen to death last winter.

Mahlon H. Myers, the Rev, J. O. Linderman, the Rev. Mr. Egge and Mr. Yerrick of Perkasie, organized themselves into a committee and went to see her.

The woman told the men that the rats were eating her up, and upon investigation it was found that the big toes had been stripped of flesh to the bone and her feet badly mutilated. While the men were there a big rat ran across the floor as if to confirm the story.

She was finally persuaded to go to the county home.

Explanation of the Age Pension Order.

To make clear the actual effects of provisions of the recent age pension order of Commissioner Ware about which a large number of the inquiries are being made, the following official statement was issued from Washington Friday.

"There appears to be an impression among many of the soldiers that allowance of pensions under the age order of the commissioner of pensions are in addition to pensions allowed hertofore. This is an erroneous idea of said order. The law prohibits the payment of more than one pension to a person for the same period and the effect, of the order on those having a pension already only will be to increase such pension up to the age limit, if the pension already drawn is below that amount."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

ROYALLY BANQUETED.

Gala Day Among the Railroad Employees.

On Thursday the 7th. Anniversary of the Pennsylvania Railroad Association held their annual business meetings at Wilkes-Barre. It was one of the most magnificent gatherings of this Associotion since their organization.

Three hundred and twenty five representatives from all over the state were in attendance. Bellefonte was ably represented by our good friend Harry Hutchinson the well known Railroad passenger agent at this place. A special pullman train was run from Sunbury to Wilkes-Barre where in the afternoon a business meeting was held, after which the entire delegation were taken to Scranton over the new trolley line recently built, where they spent the afternoon viewing that city. They returned to Wilkes Barre and banqueted at Concordia Hall. Mr. Hutchinson reports having had one of the most royal times of his life.

A Character Sketch of Senator Quay.

Matthew Stanley Quay, senior Senator from Pennsylvania, is the subject of a frank and brilliant character sketch in the May number of The Booklovers Magazine. It is written by Mr. Joseph M. Rogers, the leading editoral writer of The Philadelphia Inquirer. Through his intimate knowlege of national politics and his close touch with the politics of Pennsylvania, Mr. Rogers is unusually well qualified to write of the astute politician whom he describes as "a cross between the Egyptain Sphinx and a stroke of greased lightning." In this article Mr. Rogers has read the riddle of Pennsylvania's political sphinx. At least he has put two and two together in such a convincing way that the total is very close to four! Mr. Quay is characterized as "a consistent and persistent opportunist." That he has for so long kept in the saddle is due, not to his affiliations with the corporations, but to the fact that "he has looked after his State and has given the people what they want—though not what some estimable and ultra reformers think they ought to want." Thus it has come about that a man currently held to be utterly unscrupulous "maintains his hold upon a rural constituency which is morally honest and God-fearing." The whole sketch of Quay is full of telling points, caustic and humorous, and is writtep with all Mr. Rogers' skill in narration and his singular ability to illuminate his subject with apt illustration and anecdote. Every Pennsylvanian should get hold of the May number of The Booklovers Magazine and read this keen analysis of the chief political force in his State.

Bound to Stop Him.

The chief clerk of the senate, Mr. Rose, was diligently reading a very long bill during the morning hour. No one was giving it much attention, and a few senators seemed to know what the bill was all about.

"Hold on! hold on!" said Mr. Frye, the presiding officer, right in the midst of a sentence. So strenuously did he speak that Mr. Rose halted immediately.

The clerk from the house had appeared at the centre aisle, and, the reading at the desk having stopped with much ado, a message from the co-ordinate branch was received with due formalities. Then Mr. Rose was directed to proceed.

"Be given to such ideas," he read, and sat down.

That was all there was remaining of the bill when he was interrupted.

A Clever Scheme.

"Max Blum," presumably of Pittsburg, appeared in Altoona a week ago and worked a clever bunco game upon twenty-five men and women. "Blum" put up at the Aldine Hotel and advertised for twenty-five men and women to travel with the "Show Girl Company" at a salary of $18 per week. One dollar was paid by each of the applicants for the privilege of signing a contract.

"Blum" left the city Saturday evening forgetting to settle his hotel bill, and Tuesday morning, when the manager of the "Show Girl Company" arrived in the city, the swindling scheme was brought to light.

It was developed that "Blum" is working this scheme in all the towns east of Pittsburg where the show is booked to appear. Informations will likely be made as the outcome of the Altoona people being buncoed.

Some Will make you Laugh.

While the Lyman H. Howe moving picture exhibition, to be seen in the Opera House on April 30th, will have new and interesting scenes from all parts of the world—a world of education in an evening for a small sum—there will be pictures of a humorous turn, something to make you laugh These pictures will delight the old as well as the young. They were all taken from life, of course, and show the funny side of moving picture incidents.

Myers of Philipsburg, to be followed by a general discussion. Ten minute addresses by the following on subjects of their own selection pertaining to Sunday school work: Rev. J. A. Wood, Bellefonte; Rev. H. I. Crow, Hublersburg, Rev. R. P. Miller, Poilipsburg, Rev. Daniel Gress, Centre Hall; Rev. May Whitehead, Bellefonte; Rev. Sheeder, and Rev. Laofler both of Aaronsburg. Address "Bible Geography," by Hugh Cork. Question box in charge of Rev. A. Z. Myers. Election of officers.

Thursday evening 7:30—Praise services. Commencement exercises. Address by Hugh Cork. Presenting Diplomas to graduates. Graduating address by Prof. Pattee of State College.

Each school in the county is entitled to two delegates beside the pastor and superintendent. Please report the names of all delegates to E. K. Smith, secretary, Oak Hall Station on or before May 1st.

Dame Plunkett's Singing School.

Dame Plunkett's old fashioned singing school, the entertainment held in the Petrikin Hall on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Linn, Lamb and Curtain street members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church proved to be one of the most amusing and enjoyable events that has taken place in Bellefonte for some time. The hall was crowded and the neat sum of $80 was realized for the fund of $1,000 which ladies are the trying to raise for church purposes.

The characters were all well taken and were as follows: Dame Mehitable Plunkett, Miss Elsie Weaver; Squire Bellingham, George R. Meek; Betsy Martin, Miss Lizzie Faxon; Jefferson Jones, James Harris; Nancy Jane, Mrs. James K. Barnhart; Moses Simpkins, Hard P. Harris; Dolly Endicott, Miss Mary Meek. Robin Cost Sixty Dollars.

Italian laborers about Jersey Shore and Oak Grove have been spending their time Sundays shooting robins, and last Sunday one man was caught in the act of shooting one of the birds and a dead one in his pocket. He was taken before a justice, who fined him $10 for killing the robin, $25 for shooting on Sunday and $25 for hunting as an unnaturalized citizen.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Clearfield Democrats Give Centre a Dirty Deal.

Centre County Democrats are threatening vengeance upon the Democrats of Clearfield County There is bad blood between the Democrats of the two counties as a result of the action of Clearfield County in appropriating both national delegates from the Twenty-first Congressional District. Clearfield County controlled the situation when the State delegates representing the counties in the district met at Harrisburg last Tuesday to elect national delegates. Centre County expected to land one delegate, and it was accordingly promised in advance. Now Clearfield is laughing and the Centre County Democratics are lying in wait with a sharp axe until an opportunity to swing it to advantage presents itself.

J. Calvin Meyer was Centre County's choice for delegate to the St. Louis convention. Meyer wanted to be a candidate for Judge to succeed Judge John G. Love. The Democrats in the county, or at least the leaders, believe that Ellis L. Orvis would stand a better chance of defeating Judge Love. Meyer was pursuaded to withdraw and give Orvis a clear field for the nomination. In return Meyer was assured he would be made a national delegate. The plan was to have Clearfield County take one delegate and Centre County the other. The two alternates were to go to McKean and Cameron Counties, which with Clearfield and Centre make up the Twenty-first Congressional District.

The Clearfield County leaders kept their intentions secret until the conference was held. Then they voted the Clearfield delegation solidly for James Kerr and William E. Wallace, both Clearfield County men. Centre County was left out in the cold. The two alternates went to McKean and Cameron Counties.

The throwing down of Centre County results from friction growing out of the Democratic State convention held in Erie, which nominated former Governor Robert E. Pattison for Governor in opposition to Governor Pennypacker. James Kerr was a rival candidate to Pattison and asked for Centre County's support in the convention. Centre County voted for Pattison. Kerr controlled the Clearfield delegation to the recent Democratic State Convention. His delegates controlled the situation and he saw to it that Centre County was ignored. The turning down of Meyer for national delegate may complicate the plans of the Democratic leaders for the judicial campaign in Centre County next November.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., April, 26, 1904.

The present session of Congress has been a business session. A sum amounting to almost $700,000,000 has been appropriated for carrying on the government, and forwarding those great enterprises to which it is committed. Mr. John Sharp Williams, the minority Democratic House leader from Mississippi, complains that many abstract and purely political questions have been ignored or permitted to rest until next December on the plea of want of time. He would have the trusts prosecuted, the reciprocity treaties ratified, the Filipinos granted more rights, a nearer approach to free trade with Canada, and a general reduction of the tariff. Mr. Hamilton, member from Michigan, "threw down the gauntlet" a few days ago, in which he vindicated the present policy of the Republican party, upheld its present tariff policy not only as a necessity for giving the government its needed revenue, but as the chief factor in the prosperity of the times. He said that if there is any wide-spread dissatisfaction with the tariff the people will have an opportunity to give an expression of their feelings at the polls next November. The Pension bill carrying $137,000,000 has passed, Senator Scott of W. Va., said that if he could have his way he would give a pension of $25 per month to every Union man, rich or poor, who took up arms in the Civil war. There was some speech-making in the House against giving the President control of the Panama canal zone, but when the bill came to a vote it passed unanimously. The only appropriation bills still before Congress are the General Deficiency and the Military Academy.

A good many odds and ends of legislation remain to be looked after before the final adjournment. There is a proposition to buy the 1st and 2nd Bull Run battle fields, and erected monuments thereon. The Jamestown, Va., exposition now asks for $4,000,000, one million of which is to be used for a naval parade. The Department of Commerce and Labor has prepared twenty eight bills for the establishment of fish hatcheries and stations. A government subvention scheme for the promotion of the construction of railroads in the Philippines is before Congress. It proposes to empower the Philippine Commission to arrange the details of the subsidy, the time for re-payment and the manner of securing the government against loss. Secy. Taft is in favor of the plan and wishes it to cover a period of thirty years by the expiration of which time he thinks the roads will be self supporting, and that the natives will have made great progress in commerce and civilization.

There is a bill before Congress which declares that after June, 29, 1907, when a clerk in the civil service reaches the age of 70 years, his position shall be vacant. There are some two hundred or more clerks of this age employed in Washington, and there are a number of Senators who are over seventy. Congress is considerate in giving the aged clerks three years' notice.

The question of Mormonism and plural wives is again before the public, owing to the frank confessions and admissions of Agnus Cannon and ex-Congressman Brigham H. Roberts. Three of Mr. Roberts wives have been accounted for and Mr. Cannon has made the astonishing statement that he married two of his six wives at the same hour. This is quite as bad as progressive divorce, which only permits a man to marry several wives in succession. Senator Beveridge is strongly in favor of Senator Smoot retaining his seat. According to a Mr. Cobb, of Boise City, Idaho, the Mormons hold the balance of power in that state. Senator Dubois wishes to know if any post masters in Idaho are living in polygamy. If there are any such they should be excluded from the mails.

The President has had a very busy week of it. Social matters have divided his attention with more sober duties. He attended and enjoyed immensely the play at the Lafayette opera house given for the benefit of the kinsmen of those who lost their lives on the Missouri. Mrs. John C. Fremont was the leading lady. A few days ago the President received a delegation of fifty six colored men from the Baltimore conference of the African M. E. church. The Daughters of the American Revolution have transacted a vast amount of business provided for a Washington palace and paid their respects to the President. Gen. Fred'k D. Grant and Gen. Joe. Wheeler have been in town this week and called to see the President. Gen. Wheeler smiled at the rumor that he contemplates matrimony and said he is too young for that sort of thing.

The statue of Frederick the Great will arrive in Washington early in September. Congress is willing to appropriate $50,000 for a statue of Thomas Jefferson. There is much local excitement in the city over the proposition to run a street railway east and west across town. Everybody wants it to traverse "some other street." Cardinal Satolli is to arrive in town in June. There is a movement on foot to prevent Sunday evening concerts. The Commissioners are drafting a bill for compulsory education for all children between eight and fourteen years of age. While visiting in his city the Daughters of the American Revolution made a pilgrimage to Jamestown, Va. The Foundary M. E. church of this city has a base ball Sunday class. There is also a banquet hall in the great new church.

The Washington Sanitary Housing Company is the name of a new society which has for its object the acquiring of land and the building of sanitary houses for the poor. The rent is to be low. The intent is to do away with the insanitary houses which now crowd the alleys of the city, and are a menace to both health and morals. Jacob Riis, the biographer of the President, recently called public attention to the deplorable conditions which prevail in Washington.

Senator Foraker has been to Burlington, Vt. and made a speech to the Republicans of that city. Postmaster Gen. Payne did not come back refreshed in mind and body. Just as he embarked for the north he had a relapse. Miss Roosevelt will visit St. Louis the latter part, of May Secy. Taft declines a cavalry escort upon his arrival in St. Louis. It would be to bad to put the robust Secretary on horseback. Oliver, the Asst. Secy. of War, approves of the proposed bill for the establishment of "a distinguished service list" in the Army. He says it would settle the vexed question of promotions in the Army.

A Sad Death.

Fred Sasserman, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sasserman, died Sunday afternoon of diphtheria after a two weeks illness at his parents home on South Water street. He had been apparently getting better but the weakness resulting from the disease was too great for him to overcome and he died as above stated. He was a very bright little fellow, seven years of age, and had just started to school a short time ago. His death is a sad blow to the bereaved parents who certainly have the sympathy of the entire community in their affliction.

The funeral, which of course was private, took place Monday afternoon. Interment in the Union cemetery.

OUR NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

The Proposed Improvements to the Stone Building.

The proposed improvements to the Stone school building are receiving attention by the school board. As this is of great interest to every citizen who regards the welfare of our schools we have secured the reports of the school committee having the matter in charge and republish a part of them.

The first report was in part as follows:

TO THE SCHOOL BOARD:

The Committee appointed at the meeting of the board on the 4th inst., to investigate and report upon what should be done in providing more school room, would respectfully report: That they have given the matter as much attention as the limited time given them would admit. The committee agree that more school room is needed. The placing of a couple of schools in the Howard Street building was only temporary, and these schools have been there now longer than it was thought they would remain when they were first located at that place. The building in which these schools are is not be any means such as it should be for school purposes. They also agree that the proper place for the High School is at the stone building, and indeed this is in keeping with the intention of the board when the brick building was erected. The putting of the High School in that building was only temporary however many years it may have been there or may yet have to stay, and the room it now occupies was so arranged that when the school was taken to its natural location it could, if need be, be divided and thus make two school rooms, the same size as those adjoining it or those on the first floor of the building.

In the improvement contemplated it is intended to over-haul and re-arrange the inside of the stone building, and erect an addition to the rear, which will contain four new school rooms on the first floor, with all necessary cloak rooms, and a fine large room for the High School, and in connection with this there would be three or four recitation rooms, library room, book room, physical room, &c., on the second floor of the present building. In addition to this there would be a fine basement room, under the new part of this building, in which it is hoped a room or rooms could be provided in the very near future, perhaps at once, for a course in manual training and mechanical drawing could be given to all pupils who desired to take such a course of training.

Your committee also submits a draft made by Mr. Cole which gives a good idea of the floor plans of the proposed improvement. It is not submitted as a perfect or complete plan, for it is not, but as a guide and help to understand what ought to be done if the board intends to do anything.

In making these improvements we would provide ample room for the schools for many years to come. There would be four good rooms in the brick building that would at once be released to the use of the lower graded schools; there would be six fine rooms in the stone building, making in all fourteen rooms beside the High School room. In the re-arrangement of the schools we should do as is being done in all places where the facilities admit, and such would be the case with us, put what is technically called the senior grammar school into the High School room, and the classes be taught in a regular recitation room.

After submitting this report they visited the schools at Clearfield and Philipsburg and were greatly imbued with the manual training idea and if it will probably made a branch of our school curriculum. Their second report was in part as follows:

FIRST. That the change purposed in the stone building and the erection of an addition thereto of the size now under consideration would provide means for a better consolidation of the schools. It would further provide an assembly room ample in size to contain the High School as it now is and also the grammar school and leave room for further growth in the population of the town.

SECOND. It would place at the pleasure of the board a fine basement room in which just as soon as it could be done a manuel training department could and should be established. These classes are not nearly so expensive as people believe.

The Board at Clearfield assured us that the lumber used by the different classes in this department did not exceed six dollars for the year while the benefit to the pupil was great. Education in this line developes very often the natural tendencies and instead of groping in darkness all their life, a great light shines upon them and they develope into men who are a credit to the generation to which they belong.

The utility of education of this nature becomes more apparent than ever when it is stated that the national government maintains a number of schools in which the Indians, in order to make them useful citizens are instructed in this line of education. The State makes such instruction obligatory in the reformatory at Huntingdon and in the Pennsylvania Reform School at Nor-Ganza. If education in this line is good for the savage, the incorrigable and the criminal your committee is of the opinion that it would be better to so educate and train the pupils in the schools, and keep them from becomng either incorrigables or criminals.

THIRD. The contemplated improvements would do away with the use of rooms and buildings now used for school purposes, that were never so intended to be used and which are not now and never were fit, for such purposes. The health, happiness, progress and comfort of the children housed in such places must, and no doubt does suffer much.

FOURTH. From what the committee saw and heard on its visit to these districts it seems to be apparent that as a school district we are considerably behind our neigbors. While some years ago the district may have been, and no doubt was well up, the progress and improvements have been so rapid, that we cannot now be classed as being up to date in more ways than one. School buildings with large assembly rooms, the consolidation of the Grammar with the High School, Manuel Training, Studies in Cooking, and in Domestics have been a growth of recent years, long enough however, to demonstrate the advantages to be gained by the pupils therefrom.

FIFTH The Committee is of the opinion that whatever is done, should be done so that when complete it will not only answer the present, but the future for many years to come. The future can also afford to bear part of this burden.

It has been suggested that a building costing $10,000 or there abouts, would answer the present. Possibly it would, but before ten years had passed we would have schools located in buildings never intended for school purposes

A separate building would have to contain at least one large room and four or five recitation rooms and would cover a space at least 50 by 100 feet or it would not answer even for the present. Then it would destroy, or nearly so, the present beautiful school ground.

The plan proposed by the committee will not require as large a building as would be required in erecting one entirely new or separate, for the reason that the second floor of the old building can be used for recitation rooms. What is needed your committee believes can be done for $25,000 or $30,000, perhaps less. This estimate covers building, alterations, heating, and ventilating apparatus and furniture. The costmay vary somewhat, with the kind of material used. The majority of the committee think that stone of the same quality and color as is in the old building should be used.

The assessed valuation of the school district is $1,625,000. Two per-cent. of this would be $32,500. Two mills of additional tax would therefore pay the interest at 3½ or 4 per cent. per annum, pay the taxes, and provide $1,000 annually to be applied to the principal. At least a $1,000 bond should be paid annually.

The law under which debts made by any municipality or school district requires that there must be a tax laid, sufficient to pay the principal within 30 years, and the interest annually. With these suggestions and observations the committee submits the following resolutions.

Resolved, That the committee heretofore appointed to investigate and report upon the providing of additional room for the use of the schools be and they are hereby authorized to employ an architect and have plans, drawings, and specifications made for the alteration of the stone building and the erection of an addition thereto to be about the size indicated in a plan sketched by Robt. Cole, Architect, and submitted herewith, and that they obtain estimates of the alterations and the cost of erection of the proposed new part, in stone of the same kind used in the old building, and also the cost with fire brick or other light colored brickfaceing. They are also further authorized to ascertain whether the school district can negotiate a loan of $25,000 or $30,000. at a rate of interest not exceeding 4 per cent, the principal payable at the rate of $1,000 per year, and make a report to the board at a meeting to be called by the President as soon as the information is obtained.

EVANGELICAL MINISTER MARRIED.

Pastor of the Milesburg Church Becomes a Benedict.

Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock Rev. Ward K. Shults, of Milesburg, and Miss May Bell Keller, of Centre Hall, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock at the brides home at the above mentioned place by Presiding Elder Cromley, of Lewisburg.

Rev. Shultz is well and favorably known all over Centre county, and has been one of the most successful ministers in the Evangelical conference. Miss Keller is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keller, of Centre Hall and is a descend ant from one of the oldest and most respectable families in Penns Valley. For some years she has been one of the efficient operators in the United Telephone exchange at Centre Hall.

After a magnificent wedding breakfast, Rev. and Mrs. Shultz left for Reading and other eastern cities where they will spend their honeymoon. This paper wishes them unbounded happiness and joy through life.

Star Course for 1904 & 05

The W. C. T. U. will have charge of the Star Course of entertainments in Petrikin Hall, and are already arranging for one of the finest, most, varied and attractive courses that can be had, included among its attractions, is Jacob Riis, the great Philanthropist who has cost New York City millions of dollars. He gave facts and made the city pay for them.

President Roosevelt once said "that Riis was the most useful citizen of New York." Talent has advanced in prices, and the management of the Course may be obliged to advance Course Tickets slightly, but, we believe all who are interested in the welfare of the town, in its youth that seeks entertainments and variety will gladly aid in furnishing the means to bring high class concerts and entertainments. We would again remind you that the failure of the Course last season was due entirely to many who had promised to take tickets failing to do so. The Bureau to which the Course was rented us were not responsible.

We would be very glad to have some expression of sentiment as to the numbers of the Course and price of tickets. We need to sell 400 Course Tickets to make a Course of 6 entertainments. Come out clear at 1.50 a Course Ticket. Can we do it?

Death of Mrs. Geo. E. Bortell.

Death again visited our town early Wednesday morning April 20, and took from our midst Mrs. Annie Bortell, the beloved wife of Geo. E. Bortell, who resides on corner of Laurel and Sixth streets, says the Philipsburg Journal. Mrs. Bortell had been sick for some months, suffering from lung disease. The deceased was the daughter of Jeremiah Ewing, of Moorsville, Huntingdon county. Her mother died when she was six years old, and after the death of her mother, she made her home with B. J. LaPorte' Esq., and his wife, Mrs. LaPorte, being a sister of her father, until she was married to Geo. E. Bortell, on June 22, 1893. To this union two children were born, both girls and are living. Her husband also survives her, Mr. Bortell has resided here for a number of years. She was a devoted member of the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Bortell was born near Gatesburg, this county, on August 26, 1870, making her in her 34th year. She was very highly esteemed lady, whom to know was to love her.

Funeral services at her late home on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The remains were taken to McVeytown on the 10:10 train on Friday morning for burial.

Mosebarger.

After the hands of the clock had passed twelve on Friday night April 15, Mrs. Eva Mosebarger, mother-in-law to Richard Sheehe, died at his home in Clearfield, after an illness of four months of blood cancer, aged 76 years. Her husband John Mosebarger, was formerly one of the foremost citizens of Cooper township and at one time was a resident of Clearfield. The surviving family consists of the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Lizzie McGown, of Gillentown; Mrs. Mary Kelley of Snow Shoe; Mrs. R. D. Sheehe, of Clearfield; John, Frank and Fred of Clearfield. George, another son, is dead. Funeral services were conducted at the Catholic church in Clearfield on Monday morning, after which the remains were taken to the family burial ground in Cooper township and interred there.

Edward L. Gates Recovering.

Edward L. Gates, a member of the Junior class at the High school and for several years past an efficient carrier of the Daily News, is rapidly recovering from his recent serious illness. For several weeks past he was a patient at the Bellefonte Hospital but on Thursday afternoon, his condition being so much improved, he was taken to his parents home on East Lamb street. Eddie's many friends have watched the progress of his illness with great anxiety and will welcome his return to health and strength with much pleasure and relief.

Mr. R D. Gilliland after securing the measuring stick lately devised and patented by D. J. W. Neff, concluded to go out fishing and test the merits and demerits of the thing. Mr. Gill land made a very large catch In fact, the largest of the season, which was 12. He says that without a doubt the measuring stick is the most complete piece of mechanism ever devised or constructed by any one man, as it enables one to see his catch although it remaining in the deep and tells the exact size thus enabling the possessor from getting something in his possession, which might be defined as illegal according to the laws as described in the Hot Air Journal published at Rock Run, P. D. Q.

Mr. J. W. Shope better known as the unspeakable Turk. Did you know that there was a special meeting of the Rothrock Rod and Gun club on Tuesday April 26th, 1904. we believe you were notified in plenty of time to be present, but on account of some circumstances which is unknown to us you did not appear, why is this Joe, now look here Joe, you know you were always around whether you were wanted or not before you received the position as special envoy or instructor on the air brake system, but now if you are wanted, someone has got to run around and hunt you up and nine times out of ten you are found meditating over that confounded air brake system now Joe. this won't do you must do one thing or the other, do as we want you to do or do as you please, which shall it be.

Spring has at last made its appearance and with it nature arises from its dormant state and assumes a new life—one of activity. With this impulse of nature the people seem to be inspired with the same activity and housecleaning, repairing and yard cleaning results. Now the 'Mountain City" should be especially inspired by this impulse and of course that which is needed the most are sidewalks. It would be well if natures activity would start the inspiring cord of our citizens into building and repairing the side walks along our boulevards. They are in a deplorable state owing to heavy frosts. but that is no excuse for leaving them in that condition—this is especially true of the business places. The writer saw a cow refuse to walk on one of the most frequented thoroughfares in town on account of the many holes in the walk. Get to work all you civilized people and let the outside world know the fact that we are living. not dead. Build a side walk or repair the one in front of your property if you wish to be classified as a good, live, energetic law abiding citizen.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

In Honor of the Late Jerry Nolan.

WHEREAS. death has suddenly and painfully taken our friend and brother, Jerry Nolan, from a life of honor, industry and unstained character, leaving behind the memory of one who filled his sphere in life in a manner worthy of emulation:

Resolved, that Tyrone division No. 467 Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, hereby express their deepest sorrow in the loss which has been suffered in the death of Brother Nolan. He was a model husband and father, a splendid citizen, a true friend, and an esteemed member of our Brotherhood.

Resolved, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family of our deceased brother. To them he was ever devoted, and their grief is not to be lessened by any words of ours. Yet we hope that the God of our faith will be to them comfort and guidance in this hour of gloom.

Resolved, that these resolutions be published and spread upon our minutes; also that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother. In tender memory of the dead, we direct that our charter be draped for the customary period,

A. L. WOODRING,
W. H. HUSS,

RESOLUTIONS OF REGRET.

Passed by the Bellefonte Ministerial Association on the Departure of Two Members.

At their meeting held Monday afternoon the Bellefonte Ministerial Association passed the following resolutions.

WHEREAS within a short period of time, we The Bellefonte Ministerial Association, have beenicalled upon to part with two of our members, the Rev. Wm. H. Brown and the Rev. S. A. Salters, whose pastoral duties have called them to other fields of labor, and WHEREAS the fellowship of these brethren has been always pleasant and helpful; we hereby make this formal record of their personal worth and service.

Resolved, that with sincere regret we part with these co-laborers and in their going we heartily commend them to the Master's keeping, whose under-shepherds they are. May His blessing's attend them and strengthen them for every good work.

Resolved, that this action be recorded on our minutes; be published in the Bellefonte Daily News, and copies of the same be forwarded to these two brethren.

Odd Fellows at Methodist Church.

On Sunday morning one hundred and twenty-five Odd Fellows attended the Methodist church to listen to a sermon preached to them by one of their own brothers, Rev. John A. Wood, Jr.

The large edifice was crowded with people eager to hear the sermon and perhaps to get some of the secrets of this grand old order.

The reverend gentleman's text was taken from 1st Samuel, 20th chapter and also from the 10th chapter of Luke. The sermon was based upon three great principals of the organization which are "Friendship," "Love" and "Truth."

Eighty-five years ago five men organized the Odd Fellows in the city of Baltimore from that have sprung 12,000 lodges throughout the United States. In those 85 years over $90,000,000 have been spent to relieve the poor, needy, suffering and bury the dead.

Rev. Wood's discourse from beginning to end was filled with rich helpful food and was highly appreciated by the Odd Fellows and their many friends.

The Following Announcements Made by Rev. Wood.

Rev. and Mrs. Wood expect to leave shortly on their vacation trip to California and as a result made the following announcements from his pulpit Sunday.

A Death at Unionville.

Mrs. Eliza J. Bathurst, one of Unionville's estimable women, died at her home in that place Friday morning at 10 o'clock of heart disease. She was attending to her household duties at the time and her death was sudden and unexpected.

She was born in Union township June 9, 1831 and her maiden name was Ammerman. She was married twice her first husband being Geo. W. Barton and her second Lawrence F. Bathurst, both are dead.

She is survived by four children by her first husband, namely, Edward P. Mrs. Will Kephart, Myra and Joseph T. all of Unionville.

The funeral was held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. Piper of the Methodist church officiated. Interment in the Union cemetery.

Aged Blanchard Lady Probably Fatally Burned.

Mrs. Wesley Heverly, of Blanchard, was seriously burned Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock. It appears that she was burning the brush and dead weeds of last season in her garden, preparatory to having it dug, when her clothing in some way caught fire and before it could be extinguished, her dress was entirely consumed and her lower limbs severely burned. Medical attendance was called at once and everything done to relieve her suffering condition, but it is still uncertain as to what the real extent of her injuries may be. Mrs. Heverly is an old resident of Blanchard, is about 60 years of age and has the sympathy of the entire community in her affliction.

A Few of the Most Important Happenings

A TERRIBLE STORM

Which Swept Over Indian Territory Destroying Property and Causing Great Loss of Life.

HEAVY RAIN FOLLOWED BY WIND.

FAIRLAND, I. T. April 26.—Half a dozen business blocks were destroyed by a tornado that swept through here Sunday, killing seven persons out right and injuring a number of others. Three of the injured will die,

It is estimated that the tornado caused property damage to the extent of $10 000.

Four miles south of here the tornado was even more severe. Farm houses and barns were completely demolished and farm stock was killed.

SIX DEAD AT PRIOR CREEK.

Prior Creek, I. T., April 26.—Reports from this section show that six were killed by the tornado and a number injured.

The storm started near Chouteau, on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road, eight miles from here, and swerved to the northeast, cutting a patch from one-half to a mile wide and about twenty miles long.

HOUSE BLOWN TO PIECES

The Abbott home was demolished and four members of the family instantly killed. The storm then struck the Dealy home, blowing it to pieces, killed the young son and probably fatally injuring the father.

At Grand River, eight miles farther on, the Bitting house was demolished, the tornado killing Lucy Bitting, and breaking both the legs of her father, Leopoid Bitting, a farmer. The tornado then passed into the Flint hills, east of the river and tore a strip through the woods as clean-cut as though made by wood choppers.

The tornado was followed by a torrential rain.

FOR LOS ANGELES,

Philadelphia, April 26.—The first train of a series of seven bound for the General Conference of the Methodist church at Los Angeles, Cal., left here Monday under the personally conducted system of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Six other trains will leave on the 27th under the same auspices, each with a complement of 120 persons. The trains are equipped with sleeping and dining cars and have stenographers and ladies' maids in addition to tourist agents, chaperons and special baggage agents. The party includes all the official delegates of this and adjoining states, including a number from New England, besides many passengers not officially connected with the conference. It is said to be the largest transcontinental movement of passengers ever made under personal escort in this country.

Off For California.

Wednesday the following Bellefonters departed for the Pacific coast where they will attend the quadrennial conference of the Methodist episcopal church at Los Angeles, California: Rev. and Mrs. John A. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Crider, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Shuey, Misses Rebecca Rhoades and Ella Twitmire. At Tyrone they will be transferred to the regular excursion train to Los Angeles. This train will run through to the coast without a change, a distance of about 3000 miles. Sunday will be spent at the Grand Canyon, Arizona. This will be the only stop of any length.

ALEXIEFF ASKS TO BE RELIEVED

Another Battle Raging at Port Arthur.

REPLY TO THE CONSULS

The Dispatch of Troops to the Far East Has Been Suspended for the Present.

VIEWS OF ADMIRAL STARK.

St. Petersburg, April 21.—(7:45 p.m.)—Mail advices received here from Alevandroff, Island of Sakhalin, say it is believed that 2,000 to 3,000 Japanese employed on the Eastern and Southern coasts are disguised soldiers and sailors. Many of them have been arrested in the Korsakoff district with arms in their possession.

The families of the officials and residents of Korsakoff and Alexandroff, it is added, are secreting their valuables and fleeing into the interior.

Finally the mail advices say, that the Japanese having captured the Vladivostok mail steamer, the island will be cut off from all communications with the main land as soon as the ice disappears at the end of April.

A private letter from Port Arthur describes a wedding which occurred during the bombardment of March 22, The wedding guests were nearly stampeded, the carriage horses tried to bolt and shells were bursting as the procession drove to the church, but after the ceremony one hundred guests danced while shells were flying and bursting overhead. The newly-married couple, it is further asserted, were quite happy.

New Chwang, April 21.—An order issued by the Russian military authorities through the commissioner of customs, notifying the pilots of New Chwang that any pilot who gave assistance to any Japanese ships in the waters leading to New Chwang would be held responsible to the full extent of martial law, has been made a subject of inquiry of the authorities by three of the foreign consuls here with regard to the exact meaning of the words "to the full extent of martial law." To these inquiries the Russian authorities replied that the assisting of Japanese ships in the waters mentioned would subject the offending pilots to the same treatment given Russian subjects and traitors, based upon the fact that the Russian authorities have declared New Chwang to be under martial law.

In their reply to the consuls, the authorities affirmed further that on the other hand pilots could be compelled to pilot Russian vessels or be forced to leave New Chwang. The Russian authorities hold that under the existing martial law, foreigners are upon the same status as Russian subjects, but the foreign consuls aver that foreign residents of New Chwang who might assist the Japanese can be held responsible for their acts only as beligerents, and cannot be regarded as Russian subjects.

The correspondent of the associated Press secure the approval of the Russian censor before sending the message, although at the present time such approval is not necessary.

Viceroy Alexieff has issued an important order declaring the "Yinkow" railroad station and the native village adjoining it to be within the region under martial law. The station is opposite New Chwang and it is a terminus of the Pekin-Shan-Hai-Kwang railroad and telegraph system. The order also establishes a censorship over all telegrams, the scrutiny of passengers and the inspection of their baggage. It will go into effect tomorrow.

St. Petersburg, April 21.—Vice Admiral Stark, formerly in command of the Russian fleet at Port Arthur, in an interview, declares his belief that the Petropavlovsk and Pobieda collided with spent Whitehead torpedoes. He denies that the Russians were not prepared for an attack at the outbreak of the war, saying that the best proof of this was that the guns were loaded when the Japanese torpedo boats appeared.

WOMEN'S SYMPATHY

Is Proverbial, Bellefonte Women no Exception.

How much we owe to the sympathetic side of womankind. When others suffer they cheerfully lend a helping hand. They tell you the means which brought relief to them that you may profit by their experience. Read the testimony given here by a Bellefonte woman.

Mrs. L. A. Miles of High street says: "I was very much troubled with my back and with rheumatism. My rest was very much broken from nervousness and the kidney secretions embarrassed me when my back was aching badly. I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills by a woman who came 17 miles to get them and she appeared surprised that I was not acquainted with their merits, I immediately went to the Bush Block drug store and got them. Well, they did any amount of good. I was astonished at the result of their use for the pain and lameness soon left me. They also banished the tired feeling I had mornings. I can conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

HUNTINGDON COUNTY AHEAD.

A Piece of Road Now Being Constructed Under the New Law.

Huntingdon county is in the front rank and only one file from the right. Snyder county is number one. But second place is not bad for the mother of her kids. She has gone and begun work on a piece of road near the county seat for which the State will pay two-thirds of the cost of building. If our maternal parent is somewhat advanced in years she is wise, and the vigor of youth seems to be returning to her. The Sproul act of the legislature will prove a great lever for the securing of good roads in Pennsylvania. The work is now begun and it will continue, for the great help it renders to townships will sooner or later be taken advantage of by every section of the State. Where supervisors are slow their townships will suffer unfortunate delay, but eventually the people of every section will awaken up to the importance of securing a share of the most substantial help the State offers for the erection of good roads. The day for patching up constantly traveled roads is passing, and the person who fails to join the procession and march along will be passed by a very ancient number.

They had a big time just outside the Huntingdon borough line Tuesday in inaugurating the work on the section of new road now under contract. A couple hundred people were on the spot, and with a little silver pick the county coroner, Dr. Harmon, hit the earth first and the opening for the new road was made. District Attorney R. W. Williamson and Harry Rupurt dug next, then others worked a bit. Editor and Postmaster Howard E Butz, selected on account of his great nerve and muscle, doubtless, tossed the first spadeful of loose ground high in the air. It was a large occasion and altogether worthy of the meritorious law that made the celebration possible. A Maryland company has the contract for the work. It will progress with all possible speed, and several miles will be completed in a very short time. All credit to Huntingdon county enterprise.

Centre county should follow suit as soon as possible and not let the other counties get ahead of her.

The Lone Star State.

Down in Texas at Yoakum, is a big dry goods firm of which Mr. J. M. Haller is the head. Mr. Haller on one of his trips East to buy goods said to a friend who was with him in the palace car, "Here take one of these Little Early Risers upon retiring and you will be up early in the morning feeling good." For the "dark brown" taste, headache and that logy feeling DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills to use. Sold by F. P. Green.

MISTAKEN ECONOMIES.

When it is Extravagant to Save. The Best Sometimes the Cheapest. The Things one Cannot Do Without in Exercise, Diversion and Indulgence.

BY CHRISTINE TERHUNE HERRICK,
Author of "Cradle and Nursery," "First Aid to the Young Housekeepers," "Housekeeping Made Easy," "What to Eat," "In City Tents,

(Copyright, 1904, by Christine Herrick.)

Some time ago a clever man—or perhaps it was a woman—started the idea of an "only" box. Into this were to be dropped the coins that were saved from small indulgences. The man who went without an extra cigar or glass of beer, the woman who refrained from ice cream soda or caramels or saved carfare by walking, deposited the sum thus gained in the "only" box. After a certain period or on the occasion of a need of some specific kind or for the sake of some particular cause the box was opened and the accumulated amount devoted to the object chosen.

The idea was excellent,—in a way. There can be no doubt that we all spend small sums of money in foolish fashions, in buying some things we are as well off without. These sums, if lumped, would make something worth while. But there is danger in the scheme. One drawback was pointed out by, I think, Chauncey M. Depew, or some one equally well known, when he said, that the economy which induced the man to refrain from bringing home flowers to his wife or from granting her some other trifling pleasure was a worse mistake than extravagance. There are some savings that cost too much for any one to venture to indulge in them.

Are not many of the things that are denied more valuable than the money they would demand? I am not speaking of such obvious blunders as wearing out a quarter's worth of shoe leather to save a nickel's carfare, or ruining a handsome gown on a stormy day sooner than pay the price of a cab. Everywhere women and men are guilty of this form of stupidity. But I refer now to another variety of economy, which is equally to be condemned.

We all know the man who never has time to get away from his business, the woman who is never able to leave the house, except to go to church or to market. Both enjoyed a little pleasure when they were young, probably. Perhaps they kept up diversions for a while after marriage, and thought they would never let themselves grow old or slip into the staid, dull ways they had criticised in their seniors. But little by little cares crept in and they drifted into the way of the stay-at-home. When there were babies, or when the business required constant nursing, the habit was formed and the custom of economy of time and money continued when the real need for it has passed away. We hear much talk of the habit of extravagance but I sometimes think that the habit of hoarding is more inveterate. It matters not what one hoards,—money, time, strength, effort. The result is much the same,—an indifference to everything else.

It is well for those who save in this way to ask themselves why they do it. What do they win by it? The man who stays constantly at his business may plead perhaps that he is making a provision for his old age and for those who will come after him. But what is the plea of the woman who stays at home? She may say that she hasn't time to go about, that she needs all her leisure to keep her house in order and all her spare money for some uncertain future. It is worth while for her to take half an hour off some day and determine what she is going to gain in exchange for all she is giving up.

I do not for a moment approve of women neglecting their homes for the sake of running about out of doors. That mistake is as big as the other. But there is such a thing as a middle course,—though this is not often popular with women.

The woman who makes her one idea that of keeping her house in spick and span order pays pretty dearly for her indulgence. She thinks that there is nothing of more importance than for her to save money for her husband by economizing in service. She therefore does as much of her own work as possible. To do this she must deny herself outdoor exercise. So she pays the price of her complexion, her health, and often her temper. All these are sacrificed to the saving of more money. It is a absurdity to call this economy. It is instead absolute thriftlessness and extravagance.

Someone has said, that "economy becomes dreadful only when some lightning flash of truth shows us that our painful frugality has been really the most lavish waste." Such a lightning flash must come to every woman, sooner or later, when she appreciates the fact that she has worn herself out, lost youth, good looks and the capacity for enjoyment in the effort to save money and gear. The sooner the lightning happens to flash in her neighborhood and wake her up to see things as they are, the better for all concerned.

The best way in which a woman can fit herself to see life steadily and see it whole is by getting into the fresh air. By the time her body has been there for a while her mind will be clearer and she will be able to perceive for herself how mistaken are some of her economies. When she gets into the outdoors, when she has had the exhilaration that comes from a long sweeping walk or an inspiriting spin on a wheel, she will look at life from an entire different point of view. She will wonder why she ever thought it more important to dust every nook and corner of the house every day than it was to fill her lungs with pure air. She will see that it was a poor economy to make her own frocks instead of having a dressmaker in once in a while and gaining the opportunity to read the new book or learn the new song or devote herself to giving her husband a jolly evening, such as they used to have when they were first married and took it as a matter of course that there should be an occasional little supper and a small party of friends to eat it. She will learn that it is not economy to put a few yards more trimming on the children's clothes instead of getting their garments ready made and thus saving the time to give herself to her growing boys and girls, in indoor and outdoor sport.

When the sensible woman has once waked up to this state of affairs she will set about making a change in her habits. She will bring fresh air into everything—conduct, thoughts and all. She cannot expect her children to come to her, in the position of mind and body that years have won for her. Instead of this, she must go to them and bring them up, if possible, to where she stands. She may make them more mature by this. It is very positive that she will make herself younger. More than this, she will get a better acquaintance with her children than she has ever had before. If she has been saving time by staying at home and working for them she will find something pathetic in the joy with which they will greet her arrival among them, the share she takes in their occupations.

Children are loyal little creatures. To their mind there is no one like the mother, as a companion, and it is eminently worth while for her to economize on her own employments and pleasure for the sake of sharing in theirs. Let her follow Froebel's advice and live with her children. Let her try to forget for a little that she is grown up. If it is Summer, let her go fishing with them or boating with them or wheeling with them. If it is Winter, let her join in their house games and if possible in their outdoor sports. I know of nothing prettier than an amicable game of snowball between mother and sons, in which the gallantry of the little men prompts them to throw only soft balls at "mother."

With the coming of warm weather there is the opportunity offered for a life out doors. This is the time when the heart of the small boy or girl may be made glad by the picnic or the all day excursion into the woods or on the water. Probably the mother may think it rank extravagance to give up all or even part of a day to doing nothing but play. In reality it is a wise economy. This is the way in which she is laying up some things more valuable than money or labour. She is gaining health and colour and improving her complexion and winning the hearts of her children.

The woman who wishes to be really economical would better begin her Summer campaign by a piece of apparent extravagance. Let her buy a wheel and learn to ride it. All nature is then open to her, and the excursions of which her children have told her await her discovery. Very often she may not think they are all the youngsters have thought them,—but she won't tell them that. Even if the day has not been supremely interesting, the woman with a mania for economy may take comfort in thinking of the headaches and tired nerves she has saved herself during days to come by the oxygen she has inhaled and the exercise she has given her muscles.

Putting aside everything else, the woman who has a husband and children should bestow very serious thought on what she is to mean to them. We keep nothing, as we gain nothing, in this life, without working for it, and the love and confidence of those about us is no exception to the rule. The loyalty and understanding of the husband may hold him to the wife, even when she becomes a slave to petty household economies. The children's devotion will last while they are children, but as they grow older they become interested in outside things. They seek sympathy where they can find it and the mother who has not won their friendship sees herself left without it.

Binghamton's New Daily.

The Press is the name of Binghamton's new daily and judging from the issue before us, No. 5. the Press has set a lively pace for its contemporaries of the Parlor City of New York state. It is up-to-date in every particular, even to a surprisingly liberal amount of advertisements attractively displayed. If merit is to win, Binghamton's new daily is bound to prove a winner, and we hope that the people of that city will be quick to fully appreciate the Press by giving it a hearty and liberal support. It certainly deserves to succeed

Men of Oak

Timbers of oak keep the old homestead standing through the years. It pays to use the right stuff.

"Men of oak" are men in rugged health, men whose bodies are made of the soundest materials.

Childhood is the time to lay the foundation for a sturdy constitution that will last for years.

Scott's Emulsion is the right stuff.

The Progressive Euchre Party.

There was a large attendance at the Progressive euchre held in St. John's Hall Wednesday evening. There were enough present to fill seventeen tables and everything passed off pleasantly. The first prize was won by Edward Shields, he winning seventeen games. The prize was a handsome umbrella. The ladies prize was captured by Miss Adaline Lyons. She won thirteen games and her prize was a Shepards crook hat pin.

The Young Men's Club under whose auspices the euchre was given cleared $25 by the event.

Field Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Morrisdale, in the Philipsburg district, was organized Wednesday by Field Secretary Wilson. It started out with 56 members. Louis Pritchard was elected president, Mr. Liddle vice president, Rush Hostler secretary, and Mr. Shugert treasurer. An effort will be made to secure suitable quarters.

The Peale Association has 75 members and have secured the Peale hall for their quarters.

For the purpose of correcting any errors in appraisements, appeal will be held at County Treasurer's office, Bellefonte, Pa., on Thursday, May 12th, 1904, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m., and 2 o'clock p. m., on said day, when those who so desire can attend.

P. H. HAUPT,
Mercantile Appraiser.

TREASURER'S OF UNSEATED LANDS FOR TAXES OF 1902 AND 1903. Agreeable to the provisions of law relating to the sale of unseated tracts of land for the non-payment of taxes, notice is hereby given that there will be exposed at public sale or outcry the following tracts or parts of tracts of unseated lands in Centre county, Penna., for taxes due and unpaid thereon, at the Court House in the Borough of Bellefonte, on Monday, June 13th, at 1 o'clock p. m., and to continue if necessary, by adjournment from day to day until all are sold.

BRIEF MENTION

—Mrs. Wilbur F. Reeder has been elected State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

—The W. C. T. U, expect to hold a fair in November, towards liquidating the debt on Petrikin Hall.

—The Centre County Christian Endeavor convention will meet in Centre Hall about the last week in August.

—A sweet little girl baby was born Saturday April 16 to Mr. and Mrs. John P. Harris Jr., at their home in Unionville.

—Harry Diehl and Miss Pearl M. Green, of Columbus, Ohio, were married on Thursday of last week in Pittsburg.

—James Gregg, the janitor at the Methodist church, is lying critically ill at his home, corner of Bishop and Allegheny streets.

—P. F. Keichline is having a bath room of the latest modern style and large back porch added to his comfortable home on Willowbank street.

—Charlee Newcomer, of Bellefonte, has accepted a position with the York Bridge Co. and consequently will make his future home in York, Pa.

—Mrs. Catherine Hardesty, an old lady 70 years of age, was taken to the hospital Tuesday suffering from rheumatism. She is in a perfectly helpless condition.

—John, aged three years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Klinefelter, of near Colyer, died Monday morning. Interment was made Wednesday, Rev. Gress officiating.

—We are sorry to announce that the Rev. W.B. Cox, the United Evangelical preacher is confined to this home with diphtheria. His residence has been quarantined.

—Frank Kern, for years foreman of the steam laundry, is compounding Vintena, at the laboratory of the Penn Chemical works, on Bishop street. Frank Woomer has taken Mr. Kern's place at the laundry.

—A man who prefers the city weekly to a home paper because "its got more in it," reminds us of the man who picked out the largest pair of boots in the box because they cost no more than a pair that fitted him, says an exchange.

—"Link Miller landed two large trout about fourteen inches long near the Bush House bridge Thursday evening. Frank Graham, clerk at the Brockerhoff House, pulled out nine "beauties" inside of an hour at the same place Thursday afternoon.

—By the strict party vote of 147 yeas to 104 nays the House Tuesday passed the Statehood bill, under the provisions of which Oklahoma and Indian Territory may be admitted to the Union under the name of Oklahoma and Arizona and New Mexico under the former designation.

—This is the 20th day of April says the Philipsburg Journal of that date, and snow, ice and frozen ground covered the surface of the earth in this latitude this morning. It is not far from six months since winter weather came, and we have the remarkable record of half a year of winter in a latitude in which it rarely exceeds four months.

—Wednesday, April 20 by Justice of Peace Lauver, of Bellwood S. A. Beegley and J. J. Zimmerman, both of Coalport, were each fined $10 and cost on the charge of catching and retaining in their possession trout under the legal size of six inches. Willam Estright also from Coalport, was fined $20 and cost. William Smith, of Lloydsville, was finded $35 and costs on the charge of Sunday fishing and catching short trout. Information was made against Elmer Shum, a prominent citizen of Coalport, on the charge of interfering with the officers in the discharge of their duty. The defendant gave bail for a hearing before Justice Lauver on April 28, at 2 p. m. The illegal fishing was done along the Bell run above Bellwood.

—A Lock Haven telegrapher recently had a lot of fun with a fellow operator at West Chester. The man at Lock Haven asked the West Chester operator if he would kindly deliver a message to a friend who was stopping at one of the hotels in West Chester. Of course the West Chester man would, and it would prove a great pleasure to do the favor. The message was then sent to West Chester. It was addressed to G. I. Raff, and signed L. E Fante. The West Chester telgrapher then started to locate the person to whom the message was addressed. After telephoning all the hotels in West Chester the operator wired back to Lock Haven that he had been unable to find G. I. Raff, and it was then that the operator at Lock Haven replied, "Oh yes, that's so. G. I. Raff and his friend are traveling with the circus." The West Chester operator admitted that it was up to him to treat.—Williamsport Sun.

—Letter Carrier Edward C. Woods is sporting a brand new uniform.

—The Georges Valley Lutheran church will be re-dedicated May 29. The edifice has been extensively remodeled, and is practically a new structure.

—Mrs. L. W. Kimport is ill at her home in Boalsburg. She suffered a stroke of paralysis while in the yard putting a washing on the line. Her entire left side is affected.

—W. B. Rankin is confined to his home with sickness, the extensive work in his insurance office is being carried on very acceptably by his stenographer Miss Katharyne Irvin.

—The Grand United Order of Odd Fellows will hold special services in St. Paul's A. M. E. church Sunday evening May 8th 1904 at half past seven. The public is cordially invited to attend.

—Hi Henry's minstrels the very best aggregation of the kind on the road today will be in Bellefonte at Garman's opera house on Friday evening May 6. Make no other engagements for that night.

—Mrs. William Harper and her daughter Miss Carrie, of Bellefonte, will spend most of the summer by the sea. Mrs. Harper has not been well for some time and thinks the sea breezes will be beneficial.

—"I had a running, itching sore on my leg. Suffered tortures. Doan's Ointment took away the burning and itching snstantly, and quickly effected a permanent cure." C. W. Lenhart, Bowling Green, O.

—Miles Walker of Cato, died in the Lock Haven hospital on Monday, his death coming after an operation in that institution. Mr. Walker was a brother of Mrs. David McCloskey of near Valentines furnace. Funeral on Wednesday.

—Mrs John Hosterman died at her home at Wolf's store last Thurday after a lingering illness, aged 73 years. Her remains were taken to Rebersburg, where funeral services were conducted in the Lutheran church and burial at Rebersburg.

—The Pennsylvania State convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which was to have been held in Reading next June, has been declared off. The convention was to have been held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 21, 22 and 23.

—Dale Patton, who has been a terror to the people of Big Valley, Mifflin county, for several years, was sentenced to four and one-half years in the Western Penitentiary by Judge Woods, of Lewistown. He broke down and cried like a child.

—J. A. Fries, one of the State College faculty, having secured a year's leave of absence for study in Europe, left for Bonn, Germany, where respiration-calorimeter work is carried on. During his absence he will make a visit to his former home in Sweden.

—Many farmers will receive poor returns from the wheat fields. The indications are that the bulk of farmers in this section will not get seed and bread; the past ten days have witnessed a great reduction in the prospects, owing to cold and lack of warm April showers.

—The members of the W. C. T. U., expects to open an exchange in the parlor of Petrikin Hall, commencing Saturday afternoon April 30th, where all kinds of fine cakes, bread, bun's, candies and other good eatables can be purchased at reasonable prices. The Society asks patronage of the public.

—Elgar Yearick, second son of Henry Yearick, of Philadelphia, received an injury to his eye that necessitated the removal of the optic. Mr. Yearick is a student at the Pennsylvania Military College, Chester, and it was during rifle practice that a portion of a shattered target inflicted the injury.

—The Clearfield Young Men's Christian association moved last week into its new $18,000 home, formerly the Weaver homestead, which is to be extensively remodeled and enlarged this summer. The association is only a year old and has made remarkable progress, the membership being close to the 200 mark.

—The new Eagle brick works near Lock Haven were practically put in operation Monday. The grinding pans were started Monday and making of brick commenced Tuesday. The kilns have not yet all been erected, but when the plant is fully completed it will have a capacity of from 60,000 to 65,000 brick per day.

—The law and ordinance committee of Pottsville town council has decided to order the United Telegraph and Telephone Company to discontinue business there and remove its poles and wires out of the borough. This action is due to the charging of extra rates by the telephone company, which is alleged to be a violation of the ordinance under which it was admitted to Pottsville.

—Schad brothers the plumbers are doing an extensive business all over Centre county and in order to carry a larger stock of material they have rented the large basement room formerly occupied by Runkle the plumber and in there they will keep their reserve stock. The room they are in now will be used as an office and a large bath room fully equipped will be fitted up to advertise their business.

—We are pleased to announce that William Rees, son of George W. Rees, has been appointed to a position in the Patton Post Office. Will is a bright energetic young man, well deserving of the position he has received, and his many friends in Bellefonte wish him much success.

—Thomas Moran, of Williamsport, was run over by a carriage in the Righter saw mill of the Central Pennsylvania Lumber company Tuesday afternoon and had a hand about mashed off. The distressing accident was the first of the season, happening after the mill had been in operation just a few days.

—Shy maidens, who have promised to wed, have an ordeal before them. Heretofore it has been possible for the groom to secure the license alone, the consent of the other party to the transaction being implied. Judge Hart of Lycoming county, Friday morning put an end to that custom, when he decided, after fully examining the law, that it clearly means that both parties must make application for the license.

—Unable to swim and precipitated from a boat into twelve feet of water, three Italian employes of the Campbell brick company at Coopersdale, a suburb of Johnstown, were drowned in the Conemaugh river last Saturday evening shortly after 5 o'clock. Three other men narrowly escaped the same fate. They were returning from their work and undertook to cross the river because it gave them a short route to their homes.

—One day last week a Frenchman Lequeux died at Hawk Run, Clearfield county, after requesting that no minister or priest should conduct a service and decreeing that the village band should furnish the procession to the cemetery with lively music. When nearing the grave the band started to play "Nearer My God to Thee," whereupon a brother of the dead man called a halt and a lively march was substituted.

—Gov. Pennypacker was met at Sunbury last week by a reception committee. He was later ferried across the Susquehanna river to Shamokin dam, where he turned the first shovelful of dirt in the making of the first of the "good roads" under the lastest Assembly act. A large crowd, residents of Snyder county, witnessed the Governor tossing ground and heard him deliver a brief address on the necessity of good roads, after which he went to lunch and later returned to the State capital.

—A more pleasant man to meet, can't be found than the jovial and popular cashier of the banking company of Jackson & Hastings Co., Jno. P. Harris, of Bellefonte. He is always the same whenever you meet him, has a smile and a hearty handshake for you every time. That he is competent goes without our saying as holding so responsible position as he has for many years speaks for itself. He is always pleased to meet his friends.—Philipsburg Journal.

—We are sorry to announce that Joe Gingher is quite ill at his home on Willowbank street. Joe is a moulder by trade and a good one to, and is employed at Lingle's Machine Shops, and it is feared he has strained himself in some way in lifting. Last Monday he had a hemorrhage that lasted eight hours, and most every day since he has had awful bleeding spells, which have made him very weak. We sincerely hope he may speadily recover his good health again and get out in the fresh air which no doubt would be a great benefit to him.

—The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic this year is to be held in Boston, and a greater attendance is predicted than since its organization. It will take place the second week in August. The novel feature of the encampment is to be an automobile ride to Concord, Lexington, and other historic places, with an array of 700 automobiles in column. The governors of all the New England states are to join in the demonstration by inviting the old soldier visitors to take an excursion to their respective states.

—Mrs Mary Ellen Stover died Tuesday morning at the home of her son-in-law, Dr. J. C. Kamerly, Versailles, Mo., of diabetus, of which she had been ill for several years. She was the widow of Colonel John H. Stover and was born at Unionville, Centre county, February 1840 being a daughter of Joseph Hoover. She was for a time a teacher at the Bellefonte Academy. In 1865 she married John H. Stover and accompanied him to Missouri. Mr. Stover was a native of Aaronsburg and before going to Missouri was a member of the Centre county bar, and a resident of Bellefonte.

—Max Fridman, a Barnesboro clothier, recently received a letter from a former resident of Barnesboro, enclosing $1.50 in payment for two pairs of gloves stolen from Mr. Fridman four years ago. The writer of the letter said he had recently been converted and wished to make restitution. This was a case of genuine conversion. A professing christian who contracts debts that he knows he will not be able to pay, or has no intention of paying, or neglects to though his intentions were good enough when the purchase were made, is an injury to his church no matter how loud his prayers or how active he is in church work.

Nature Lends

Every one knows that Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. Hence the housewife uses it with implicit confidence and without question, and she is justified in so doing.

But how few realize that Royal Baking Powder in its chief ingredient is a direct product of the healthful and delicious grape! This constituent of the grape, crystallized and ground to an impalpable powder, is the cream of tartar which forms the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Fruit properties are indispensable to the healthfulness of the body, and those of the grape as used in the "Royal" are the most valuable and healthful of all.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder produces food superlative both in flavor and wholesomeness.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.
